A Millionaire Editor. [New York Cor. Philadelphia Record.] The only really handsome millionaire that I know of in this city is Mr. Allen Thorndyke Rice, the editor and propri-etor of The North American Review. Mr. Rice is said to be the fortunate possessor of $5,000,000, which is but a drop in the bucket compared to the fortunes of many of our wealthy citizens; but, still, it is a very comfortable sum to have at one's command, and Mr. Rice knows how to use it to his own enjoyment and to the enjoyment of others. Mr. Rice is a young man, not 35 I should say, with olive com-plexion, dark brown hair, large hazel eyes, a good straight nose, and a well-brushed, close-cut beard, overhung by a long mustache. He dresses quietly, and, while his clothes are all of the hand-somest material, he seems to have a fancy for a top-coat that is a little worn in the seams, so that his clothes will not have the appearance of having just come from

Mr. Rice is a very busy man; for, be-sides taking care of his money, he looks after the interests of The North American, engages contributors, and when he is in New York takes entire charge of the editorial department upon his shoulders. But all this does not seem to occupy the whole of his time, for he has recently gone into other branches of business, so that he keeps two secretaries going all day long. One of Mr. Rice's recent schemes is a bureau for furnishing literary articles to a syndicate of newspapers. The first articles that have appeared in this syndicate, from Mr. Rice's bureau, were published a short time ago. I suppose that Mr. Rice's idea is to furnish somewhat the same class of articles to the newspapers as appear in the pages of The North American. Of course, not so long, but articles of literary rather than local or temporary interest.

Dickens' Home Theate [Cornhill Magazine.] He had a temporary theater built out in the garden, and the scenes were painted of the greatest scene-painters by some of the greatest scene-painters of the day. A drop-scene, representing Eddystone lighthouse, by the late Clarkson Stanfield, R. A., was afterward framed and covered with glass, and hung in the entrance hall of Gad's Hill.

In the play called The Lighthouse, written by Mr. Wilkie Collins, the great effect at the end of an act was to come from a starm, and the rehearing of this from a storm, and the rehearing of this from a storm, and the rehearsing of this storm was a very serious matter indeed. There was a long wooden box with peas in it, to be moved slowly up and down, to represent rain; a wheel to be turned for wind; a piece of oil-cloth to be dashed upon oil-cloth and slowly dragged away for the waves coming up and then receding, carrying the pebbles along with them; a heavy weight rolled about upon the floor above the stage for thunder, etc.,

At the time of the storm the manager's part kept him on the stage, but during rehearsal he somehow or other managed to be in the hall where the storm was worked as well as on the stage, for he sometimes appeared with the rain, sometimes with the wind, sometimes with the thunder, until he had seen each separate part made perfect. This storm was pronounced by the audience a most wonderful success. I know there was such a noise "behind the scenes" that we could not hear ourselves speak, and it was most amusing to watch all the actors in their sailor dresses and their various "make-ups," gravely and solemnly pounding away at those raw ma-

> A Great Festival. [Toronto Globe.]

One of the most characteristic festivals of the Russian empire—is the "Kreshtchenie Vod," or "Christening of the Waters." The performance is said to date 900 years back to the time when Prince Vladimir and his Kiev spearmen dipped themselves in the Dnieper and swore "to be true to Crist and his law." Ever since, on the 18th day of January, in every part of the vast empire, the cross is plunged through the ice into the rivers, and the priest's traditional formula of blessing is uttered over it. In St. Petersburg the ceremony assumes the aspect of a national festival. As the noonday gun sounds, the gate of As the noonday gun sounds, the gate of the winter palaces wings slowly open and a single figure appears—that of the Grand Duke Constantine, his brother Michael, or even the czar himself. Then the high priest descends to an opening previously cut through the ice in the Neva, and, plung-ing the cross into the water, solenmly pronounces the words of consecration.

> The Bone Industry. [Philadelphia Press.]

The bone industry of the country is an important one. The four feet of an ordinary ox will make a pint of neatsfoot oil. Not a bone of any animal is thrown away. Many cattle shin bones are shipped to Europe for the making of knife handles, where they bring $40 per ton. The thigh bones are the most valuable, being worth $80 per ton for cutting into tooth brush handles. The foreleg bones are worth $30 per ton, and are made into collar buttons, parasol handles, and jewelry, though sheep's legs are the staple for parasol handles. The water in which the bones are boiled is reduced to give, the dust which comes from sawing the bones is fed to cattle and poultry, a dall bone that cannot be used as noted, or for bone black, used in refining the sugar we eat, are turned into fertilizers and made to help to enrich the soil. As regards waste, it is the story of the pig. Nothing

> Water Pipes of Paper. [Chicago Times.]

Dr. Dio Lewis says that some years ago he laid 1,000 feet of water pipe, two inches in diameter, to convey water from a spring to his house and barn in the country. It has never leaked, and has never imparted any perceptible taste to the water. This pipe is made of strong paper wound into pipe form and thoroughly soaked in tar. It becomes so hard and strong that it will bear a pressure almost equal to iron.

Dore's Shakespearian Studies. [Inter Ocean.] Gustave Dore left about 100 finished plates and innumerable sketches and studies for the illustration of Shakespeare. Dore spent about $60,000 on the work, which death cut short.

A Horse! a Horse! My Kingdom for a Horse. - [King Richard.

RECORD, 2:271.

Having purchased this celebrated Stallion from MR. JAMES CAMPBELL, I hereby notify the public that he will stand the present season at my headquarters, corner of Punchbowl and Queen streets (Captain Cluney's). Terms for the season, $50; to insure, Description.

Venture is a rich chestnut color, 16 hands high, and weighs about 1,100 pounds. In structure he is the picture of great muscular power, and in appearance, temperament and disposition, he is faultless. Full of fire and gentleness, he is without speck or blemish. As a stock horse he is having extraordinary success; his numerous progeny, both in California and in this country, attest this fact, several of them being able to trot low down, and one of his daughters (Venus) can trot in 2:25. Venus is also the dam of Transit, which is said to be the most promising two-year-old in California. He trotted a mile last season, as a yearling, in 2:45.

Pedigree. Venture, chestnut horse, foaled in 1863, bred by Henry Williamson, Esq., Oakland, California; by Belmont, he by American Boy, he by Seagull, he by Imported Expedition.

1st dam, Miss Mostyn, by American Boy, Jr.
2d dam, by Kenner's Gray Medoc.
3d dam, Imported Lady Mostyn, by Teniers.
4th dam, Invalid, by Whisker.
5th dam, Helen, by Hambletonian.

6th dam, Susan, by Overton. 7th dam, Drowsy, by Drone. 8th dam, by Old England.
9th dam, by Cullen Arabian.
10th dam, Miss Cade, by Cade.
11th dam, Miss Makeless, by son of Greyhound.

Belmont, by American Boy.
1st dam, Imported Prunella, by Comus.
2d dam, by Partisan.

3d dam, Pawn, by Trumpator. 4th dam, Prunella, by Highflyer. 5th dam, Promise, by Snap. 6th dam, Julia, by Blank. 7th dam, Spectator's dam, by Partner.

8th dam, Bonny Lass, by Bay Bolton. 9th dam, by Darley's Arabian. 10th dam, by Byerly Turk. 11th dam, by Taffolet Barb. 12th dam, by Place's White Turk.

13th dam, Natural Barb Mare. In offering the services of this horse to the public I make one claim for him, which is that he is the highest bred trotting stallion in the world, living or dead, and in support of this claim I am willing to submit it to any authority that can be obtained, and if he is not, then I will forfeit all my claims to horse knowledge. It will be seen that his pedigree represents a union of the purest blood of the English and American thoroughbred racer, one of his grand dams, as also one of his great grand dams, being imported from England to the United States. When Venture was on the turf, about eight years ago, he was at that time the sensational horse of the Pacific Coast, and the sporting papers in the LUNCH, A SMOKE, OR A GAME OF East, that were always so much opposed to running blood in the trotter, commenced picking away at his pedigree, trying to find a cold cross in it, at the same time declaring that it was simply impossible for a strictly thoroughbred horse to trot as fast as he was then trotting; but at last they had to give it up, and admitted the fact that he was a strictly thoroughbred horse, but declared him a phenomenon, and were unable to account for his great speed at the trotting gait. But the fame of his sire, old Belmont, is almost world-wide, and it is a well-known fact his blood nicked better with the trotting families than that of any other thoroughbred horse ever known, as, in addition to Venture, two other thoroughbred sons of his, Capt. Webster and Owen Dale, were said to have possessed great speed at the trot. Besides these, he sired the dams of Belle Echo, 2:20; Flora Shepherd, 2:30; Monarch, 2:28; Nelly Patchen, 2:27; Rustic, 2:30; which is a showing that a great many of the best trotting bred horses cannot equal. Mr. Patrick Farrell, who is one of the most experienced drivers on the Pacific Coast, told me the last time that I saw him, that Venture was the fastest trotter that he ever pulled a line over, and that if his temper had not been soured in his youth by bad handling, he believed that he would have equaled, if not surpassed, all the records ever made, and that he could show a two-minute gait with him to a wagon, but in company he would become wild, on account of his hot blood, and was often beaten by horses that could hardly run as fast as he could trot. His record of 2:2714, which was no measure of his speed, was made at the Oakland track in 1877, in a race which he won, beating Alexander, Gus, General Reno and Billy Hayward, this being his last public performance.

one, but no greater mistake could possibly be made. Indeed, the opposite is claimed by many large breeders, and instances are so numerous of horses siring their best foals at an advanced age that the above theory has long ago been exploded. Imported Diomed was twenty-seven years old when he sired Sir Archy, his best son; Bonnie Scotland, who died only a few years ago, sired Luke Blackburn and George Kinney, by far the best of his get, after he was twenty-five; Imported Learnington sired Iroquois, his best son, the last year that he lived, at twenty-five. Among trotters may be mentioned Volunteer, the sire of St. Julien, who is thirty-one years old this spring, and is said to be as lively and vigorous as he ever was, and his young foals as promising as any that he ever got. Old Hambletonian died in March, 1876, aged twenty-seven years, but sired two foals the last days of his life, and one of them, called Hambletonian's last, made a trotting record of 2:25 to the past season, and the other one is said to be equally as fast.

With these facts before us, it is plain that the age of a horse has nothing to do with his success as a sire. I think myself that there is a great deal in the condition that a horse is kept, for an animal that is well fed and cared for, with plenty of exercise, will beget better foals than one that is turned loose and never stabled or fed grain. Venture is twenty-two years old this spring, and with the care that I intend to give him, I expect him to sire better foals than he ever has before. He is a remarkably sure breeder. Mr. Campbell assures me that he has never bred a mare to him yet that did journey to see; and now as he is to be kept so convenient to the general public, no one owing a good mare should be so blind to their own interest as to neglect the opportunity of obtaining his blood while they have the chance. For any additional particulars apply at Punchbowl and Queen streets. C. B. MILES, Proprietor. Honolulu, April 10, 1885. 63-ap10-tf Advertisements.
